FAQ LOG

Playing a Game

- Q: Proximity is ignored whilst models are Engaged. Does this mean that Enemy models could stop moving closer to an Engaged Enemy model than normal? What would happen to the model that stopped if the Engaged Enemy model regained their Proximity?
A: Yes, this means that Enemy models could finish moving closer than 1" away from an Engaged Enemy model. If Proximity was regained by a previously Engaged model, the previously Engaged model would be moved to Engage the other model.
- Q: Can a model finish a move on the base of another model?
A: No.
- Q: Can a model move through the base of an Enemy model?
A: A model never move through an Enemy model's base, even if they have no Proximity.
- Q: Some rules require a model to move directly either towards or away from another model, Search Token or a point on the Battlefield. How does moving directly differ from other forms of moving?
A: If a model is required to move directly towards or away from something, it must do so in a straight line using another model, Search Token or a point on the Battlefield as a starting point. When asked to move a model directly, take this straight line from the middle of the other model, Search Token or a point on the Battlefield. The actual distance measured is still taken from the edge of the models or Search Token as normal.

- Q: Can a model drop down from terrain in a manner where it would move further than it could normally?

A: Yes.
- Q: How do Wide Open and Obscured interact?

A: They effectively don't. Wide Open and Obscured are two different states that can be applied based on certain visibility conditions. Being Obscured is not the opposite of being Wide Open. There are, in effect, three states of visibility: Wide Open, normal visibility, and Obscured.

A model being Obscured only matters for the fact that another model in the same crew can block the shot.

If a model makes a ranged attack against an enemy model that is engaged with a friendly model that is in the way, the target will not be Obscured by that model (they're not from the same crew) but will also not be Wide Open.
- Q: Is a model within its own Control Area?

A: Yes. This means certain Perks like Power of Prayer and Spotter will affect the model with the Perk itself. Others like Sermons will not though, so read each Perk carefully.
- Q: The rules for Control Area only mention when Friendly models are inside of a Control Area. When are Enemy models counted as being within a Control Area?

A: An Enemy model is only ever considered to be within the Control Area of a model from an opposing crew when a special rule or Perk (such as Intimidation) would require the model to be within the Control Area in order for that special rule or Perk to function. Otherwise, only Friendly models can be within a Control Area.
- Q: A model can't make the same Action more than once each Turn, but can it make the same Action more than once in a Round, on different Turns?

A: Yes. For example, let's say there is a model looking to get across the Battlefield. A model could make a Get Moving Action once in a Turn and then use their other Action immediately to do something else. The model could also make one Get Moving Action, wait for another Turn and then make a second Get Moving Action.
- Q: Does the move granted via a Movement Order count as a Get Moving Action?

A: No. It is a bonus within a Get Moving Action, rather than further examples of the action itself.

- Q: Can an Engaged Enemy model be the Target of a Ranged Attack?

A: Providing that the Target is Visible to the Active model, yes.

- Q: Would I alter the Pool Size for an Attack Test as part of a Ranged Attack where the Target is Engaged?

A: No, the Pool Size would not be impacted purely based on the Target being Engaged. Other factors would alter the Pool Size as normal.

- Q: Can a model use multiple Chems in one Turn?

A: Yes.

- Q: Where on my Crew Roster should I mark Rare Chems?

A: Rare Chems should be marked in the spare boxes beneath the Common Chems, marking the boxes as normal.

- Q: I have a game where the outcome requires a winner but winning isn't defined. How should I define the winner in these instances?

A: The winner would be whoever earns the most XP in total.

Getting Started

- Q: Do Leaders count towards a crew's Champion Limit?

A: Yes because they are Champions.

Quest Lines

- Q: Does XP earned during the Story Phase (such as via Achievement Unlocked) count towards Quest Goals that require a certain amount of XP to be earned in one go?

A: No because this XP is earned outside of the game during the Story Phase.

- Q: I have a Quest Goal that requires a model in my crew to pass a Confusion Test, like in the Super Mutant Quest Line 'Ours By Right'. If a model automatically passes Confusion Tests (such as via the Natural Leader Innate Perk), can I mark a Progress box for this Quest Goal?

A: Yes.

Control Campaigns

- Q: How can I hire Legends of the Wasteland for my crew during a Control Campaign, like the one in the Battle for Nuka-World?

A: Each player can hire a single model from a 'Legends' section of a Fallout Factions product at the start of the Purchase Common Chems Step. To hire a Legend, a player reduces their Crew's Caps Stash by the model's Hiring Fee. Then they add the model's Profile to an empty row of their Roster. A player can reduce the cost of hiring a model by trading in any number of Bonus Ploys for the upcoming game. For each Bonus Ploy they trade in, the model's Hiring Fee is reduced by 50, to a minimum of 0. Legends have no effect on Crew Limits and are always removed from a Crew's Roster at the start of the Story Phase.

Reach Campaigns

- Q: A Nomadic crew has taken one of my models Captive. Can I choose a Rescue Objective in an attempt to get them back?

A: No because Nomadic crews do not have a Home Turf. You would need to use the Negotiate Release Story Action instead.

- Q: I have a game containing the Scavenge Caps and Scavenge Parts Objectives. How do the Special Rules for these two Objectives work together?

A: After deciding to Find Caps and Parts, you would decide to either find Caps or Parts.

- Q: I have a game containing the Duel Exclusive Objective. My Duellist Incapacitated the other Duellist but was then Incapacitated later in the game. Can I still use the free Crew Training rewarded by this Objective's Story Outcome?

A: Yes.

- Q: Do I lose Reach whenever I become Nomadic?

A: No, only when you are forced to do so such as retreating from a Raid.

- ~~Q: I am rolling on the Legend of the Wasteland Aftermath Table for a model with an Innate Perk (like Beast or Programmed) that prevents Perks from being gained. I roll the 'New Home!' result, which would cause the model to gain the Outsider Perk. Would these Innate Perks prevent the Outsider Perk from being gained by that model?~~

~~A: Yes. This would then cause you to resolve the Adios result instead.~~

- Q: In the Brotherhood of Steel Quest Line 'Protect Humanity From Itself', when would I check for progression towards completing the Goal for having 6 Facilities on my Home Turf?

A: At the end of the Story Phase.

Critical Effects

- Q: One of my models has successfully triggered the Maim Critical Effect during an Attack Action against a Target that has reached their Harm Limit. Would the additional Harm generated from Maim be applied to the Target?

A: No because the Target has reached its Harm Limit which makes it Excess Harm. Excess Harm normally does not cause any additional effects to be triggered, unless a rule specifically calls it out such as the third entry on the damage table.

- Q: Do Critical Effects, like Poison (X) or Suppress (X) count as S.P.E.C.I.A.L. Tests for the purpose of earning 1 Experience from a Failing Forwards?

A: No. Failing Forward only counts on S.P.E.C.I.A.L. Tests, which Poison and Suppress are not.

Chems

- Q: Does Psycho add Bonus Dice to the Attack Test of Ranged Attacks and Melee Attacks?

A: Yes.

Perks

- Q: Can a model have the same Perk multiple times?

A: No. Each model can only have each Perk once.

- Q: A model has the Penetrator Perk and triggers the Pierce Critical Effect. Could both of these happen during an Attack and reduce an Enemy model's Endurance statistic by 2?

A: Yes, providing that all the criteria for the Perk and the Critical Effect have been met.

- Q: One of my models is making a Ranged Attack. One of the potential Targets has both the Stealth Boy and Bullet Magnet Perks. This potential Target is the closest Enemy model to my model but it is also outside of that model's Perception range. How would I resolve the situation caused by this combination of Perks?

A: The Stealth Boy Innate Perk would take precedent. Your model would be outside of the Perception range of the model with the two Perks, therefore the Bullet Magnet Perk would not apply. This means the Active model should choose a different Target for the Attack.
